and represents what architects term as "something different," which newadays seems to be the goal of all designers, without regard to what is being designed. Two large urns, one on either side of the entrance, and a large box placed directly over the doorway, take care of the evergreeus, lending a picturesque appearance.

With tiled floor and marble base, the salesrooms are amply proportioned.

With tiled floor and marble base, the salesrooms are amply proportioned Panel wainscoting covers the walls, which are beautifully decorated, and the lighting fixtures are of a special design to carry out the general harmony of the interior. The furnishings of both the salesrooms and offices are of mahogany, with floor coverings of heavy velour of a dark green shade.

The general offices are located on the mezzanine balcony, while the service station is on the ground floor. Two doors in the rear, allowing plenty of room for entrance and exit have been again.

The show rooms have been decorated for the opening of the new building with palms, ferns and chrysanthemums, with the hoods of the cars on display stratefully decorated with ribbons. The company is now quite at home in its new quarters, and extends a cordial invitation to the general public to visit the new building.

Professors Ralston, Marshall and tarcher, of the division of agricultural extension of the institute, will be in charge of the demonstrations, and they cordially invite the fruit growers in the sections adjacent to the points for the packing schools to attend. At one of these interesting schools recently held at Daleville, orchardists representing several hundred acres of applies were present. A large number attended the one at the Stevens or hard in Montgomery County last week, and the one in Carroll County on Thursday last was well attended and the growers took much interest in the cool work.

A Considerable Difference,
In an article in this section last week on the dairy and creamery interest in Virginia an annoying typographical error bubbed up. The types caused the statement to be made that caused the statement to be made that the average increase in Virginia creamery products from the year 1811 to 1915 was 50 per cent. It should have read five hundred per cent. There is no industry in the State that is growing more rapidly than that of creamers.

Highway Making in Alleglany.
COVINGTON, VA. September 18. - Alleghany County already has some renutation for good roads, but the people are not satisfied. They have voted bonds to the amount of $100.000 for the construction of more first-class highways. It is likely that the good work will not store at this, for it seems that the more good roads the people have in these parts, the more they have in these parts, the more they
